LOCAL MATTERS.

HAPPENINGS IN AND AROUND THE CITY.

GATHERED BY OUR REPORTER.

A Young Man Nearly Starved Found in a Freight Car--The Concert at the Opera House Deserving of all Praise.

Mr. J. S. Craybill, yard conductor of the Norfolk and Western yards, was much surprised last Sunday while making his rounds at the West End, to find in one of the freight cars, on the verge of starvation, a youth apparently about eighteen years old.

The young man had stolen a ride from Bristol to this city, but by some means he was locked up in the car.

The ride was commenced on the Monday previous, but in the delays and changes of the cars the tramp was not able to communicate with the world outside, and in consequence was kept without food or water for exactly six days.

When discovered he was hardly able to stand, but after being supplied with something to eat he rallied considerably, and at last accounts was ready to steal another ride should the necessities of his condition require him to make the attempt. Stealing rides on the cars is an art among these wayward wanderers, but they owe their immunity from interference more to the kindness of heart of the railroad men than any peculiar dexterity on their part.

THE NORFOLK AND WESTERN

Is to be Extended to Knoxville, Tennessee.

It is announced in the Knoxville Journal that the report is current in railroad circles of an extension of the Norfolk and Western railroad from Bristol to the first-named city, work on which will be commenced in ninety days from the first of January next.
The Norfolk and Western is a great railroad and is already doing wonderful work in developing the resources and contributing to the wealth of the Old Dominion.

The Concert at the Opera House.

The Boston Quintette Club rendered their postponed concert of Saturday, the 28th inst., last night at the opera house before a large and select audience.

It was a most excellent array of talent and an entertainment highly appreciated. Special mention should be made of the flute solo by Mr. Adolph Barose; the violin solo by Mr. John F. Rhodes; Schumann's "Trau-ere" by the club; the ballad "Last Night," so beautifully sung by Miss Anne Carpenter and Dunkler's "Hungarian Caprice" for the Violoncello by Mr. Louis Blumenberg. On the whole the concert was just what might be expected from a club of such artistic excellence, and those who attended last night enjoyed a rare musical treat.

Deserving all Praise.

The entertainment given by the ladies at Cloverdale last Friday night was an entire success, the amount realized being $100. The purpose for which the entertainment was given was to raise funds to help build a Union church at that place. The committee in charge of the undertaking were, Miss Mary Moomaw, Mrs.
D. Richardson and Mrs. Chase, and they deserve much praise for their perseverance and energy. The church will cost about $1,100 most of which has been raised, and the building will be framed in this city with a view of dedicating it six weeks after Christmas.

At the Baptist Church.

The sermon of Rev. Dr. Flippo at the First Baptist church Sunday night, was an able and eloquent discourse on the new and old year, and the necessity of being prepared to meet the changes of the latter. The church as usual, was filled to overflowing with a deeply interested audience, and it is earnestly hoped that increased prosperity and membership will enable the congregation to complete a place of worship in 1890 worthy the ability and popularity of the pastor and the needs of his flock.

Too Far from Home.

George Griggs, a peripatetic colored individual who claimed to have walked from Henry county to this city, was before the mayor yesterday on the charge of being a vagrant. As it was plain that Griggs, only visible means of support were his legs, his honor, the mayor, fined him $5, and as not a cent of current money was found on his person, he was sent to jail to join the chain gang in its efforts to improve the public thoroughfare of the city.

To Prevent Cruelty.

In order to organize a society for the prevention of cruelty to animals, about which several notices have appeared in the TIMES, persons desiring to connect themselves with the society are requested by Judge S. G.
Williams to call on Mr. P. L. Terry, at Trust, Loan and Safe Deposit company; Mr. T. T. Fishburne, Exchange National bank, or Dr. O. F. Flippo.
When the names of a sufficient number of persons are secured an organization will be effected.

A Welcome Visitor.

Judge W. Griffin, of Salem, was in the city yesterday for the first time since the commencement of the Christmas holidays. The outlook at Salem is fine, and with its excellent location the Judge is a firm believer in the rapid growth and progress of the city, all of which the people of Roanoke earnestly desire.

Salem Items.

Mr. Peter Coperland, formerly of Amsterdam, Va., but recently moved to Salem, died with consumption in that city yesterday. He was sixty-five years old.

Willie Ballard, the little ten-year-old son of Major Ballard, of Salem, was thrown from a horse and severely hurt on Saturday last.

Why not use A. B. C. Tonic and "Alternative," and be relieved? Delays are dangerous.

NEW YEAR'S.

The Times Will Publish a List of Those Who Will Receive.

As a matter of news, and for the convenience of those interested, the TIMES desires to publish tomorrow morning (New Year's), a complete list of all the ladies of Roanoke and vicinity, who will receive on that day. In order to do this the ladies are requested to send in their names and addresses; also the names of those who will assist them by eight o'clock this evening. There will be no charge of course for these notices, and the list will be of valuable aid to those making calls.

THE MAYOR MAKES A TOUR.

The City in a Better Condition than Ever Before.

Mayor Carr a day or two ago made a tour of inspection around the city to see if certain ordinances were being observed, and also looked into the sanitary condition of the town generally. In conversation with a TIMES reporter yesterday in regard to the result of his trip the mayor said:

"In making my examination of the city's condition, I traveled about ten miles and inspected nearly every portion of the city. It gives me pleasure to state that I found everything in better condition than it has ever been, and especially was the sanitary condition in excellent order. Nearly everybody had complied with the ordinances of the city. I have not made out my report yet, but will do so before the council holds its next meeting, at which time it will be handed in."

agreeable change from the spring-like breezes of the early part of Christmas week. Mud and a drizzling rain were the order of the day and pedestrian-ism was decidedly unadvisable.

ROANOKE'S NEED.

DEMAND FOR HOUSES ON THE INCREASE.

WHAT REAL ESTATE MEN SAY.

New Buildings Rapidly Going up and Still the Cry is for More--Both Residences and Business Houses in Demand.

Roanoke is growing so rapidly and so many people are coming here every day to make this their permanent home, that it is almost impossible to supply them with dwelling houses and places of business, notwithstanding the large number of buildings that have been erected and are continuing to be erected.

With the advent of the new year and the opening of the building season proper, however, the wants of everybody will be supplied by the erection of hundreds of new buildings.

In the meantime people will continue to come to look around, see how busy things are, and return home to move here in the spring.
Below is what the real estate men that could be found yesterday say about the demand for houses:

Yager & Campbell: "The demand for houses in Roanoke is much larger than the supply. Despite the great number of houses erected in 1889, it is almost an impossibility to find a vacant building. We have a large rent list of over one hundred houses, but there is not a single one in our possession that is unoccupied. People are coming to Roanoke faster than ever before and must have houses to live in. We are having residences erected as fast as possible, but the supply is inadequate. If we had several good stables with chimneys they could be rented at once. The year 1890 will be the most prosperous Roanoke has ever had, and 1891 will be more so."

James S. Simmons & Co.: "We have a large number of applications for houses every day. Sometimes the number reaches twenty-five or thirty, and it is an impossibility to supply the demand. As a general rule houses of a better class are desired now. At this time we are not having buildings erected, but so soon as spring opens the Home Building and Conveyance company, of which we are agents, will begin the erection of a large number of houses."

Francis B. Kemp & Co.: "We have not a single house to rent, and applications are constantly coming in.
A number of persons called here this morning, but we were unable to supply them. There are very few buildings of any kind either for rent or for sale. The demand is greater now than at the same period last year, showing conclusively that the influx of population is greater."

B. L. Greider: "I never saw any thing like the scarcity of houses in Roanoke at present. We have a large rent list, but there is not a vacant house on it.
I am not having any building done at this time."

C. O'Leary: "The demand for houses is largely in excess of the supply. I suppose we could rent fifty houses at once, if we had them. We are finishing up four dwelling houses in Melrose addition near the driving park, and will have twenty-five or thirty constructed there in 1890."

J. R. Hockaday: "I have been in business in Roanoke for seven years, but this is the first time since I started up that I did not have a vacant house on my rent list. The demand is both for residences and business houses.
Everything points toward a bright year in 1890, and I think Roanoke's outlook is decidedly favorable."

J.
